Jill Bolte Taylor, Ph.D., is the CEO of My Stroke of Insight, Inc. She also serves as the Chairman of the Board of Jill Bolte Taylor BRAINS, Inc. and is a trained and published neuroanatomist. Dr. Taylor travels as the National Spokesperson for the Harvard Brain Tissue Resource Center. In 2008, Dr. Taylor presented a TED talk which has received 17 million views. In 2008, she was named one of the 100 Most Influential People in the World by Time Magazine, was the premiere guest on Oprah Winfrey’s Soul Series web-cast and was interviewed on The Oprah Winfrey Show. Dr. Taylor served for three years on the Board of Directors of NAMI and currently serves as President Emeritus of the NAMI Greater Bloomington Area. Her work focuses on the postmortem investigation of the human brain as it relates to schizophrenia and severe mental illness and is passionate about helping others find their way back from neurological trauma.

Robert Heinssen, Ph.D., is the Director of the Division of Services and Intervention Research at the National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH). Since 1999, Dr. Heinssen has played a key role in launching major NIMH research initiatives in the areas of prodromal psychosis, first episode schizophrenia, and neuroscience-based assessment and remediation of cognitive deficits in schizophrenia. In addition, Dr. Heinssen played a pivotal role in launching the NIMH-Army Study to Assess Risk and Resilience in Service members (Army STARRS), the largest study of mental health risk and resilience ever conducted among military personnel. He has won several awards, including the Special Presidential Commendation from the American Psychiatric Association; the Department of Health and Human Services' Hubert H. Humphrey Award for Service to America; the National Institutes of Health Director's Award and the NIMH Director's Award for Significant Achievement. Dr. Heinssen is the founder and past president of the Schizophrenia Special Interest Group within the Association for Behavioral and Cognitive Therapies, is a Fellow of the American Academy of Clinical Psychology and has authored numerous journal articles and book chapters, and is a regular presenter at major scientific meetings.

Sophia Vinogradov, M.D., is the Vice Chair and a Professor in the Department of Psychiatry at the University of California, San Francisco and the Associate Chief of Staff for Mental Health at the San Francisco Department of Veterans Affairs Medical Center. She also serves as the Scientific Co-Director of the Prodrome Assessment, Research and Treatment Program at the Langley Porter Psychiatric Institute of the University of California, San Francisco. Dr. Vinogradov focuses in Schizophrenia, cognition, cognitive training, cognitive remediation, neuroplasticity, functional magnetic resonance imaging, psychotic illness, prodromal schizophrenia and early psychosis. She has received numerous awards including the Alexander Gralnick Award for Research in Schizophrenia from the American Psychiatric Foundation.

Hakeem Rahim, Ed.M., is a Let’s Talk Mental Illness™ Presenter at NAMI Queens/Nassau and the Owner of Live Breathe, LLC. Hakeem is a leading African American voice in mental illness, wellness and recovery and speaks openly about his 15 year journey with bipolar disorder to audiences across the country. Through his speaking and advocacy work, Hakeem has spoken to law enforcement officials, individuals with mental illness and their family members and to over 4,000 high school and middle school students. He was selected as a 2013 Honoree by New York State Office of Mental Health for the “What’s Great in Our State” Award.

Marsha Linehan, Ph.D., ABPP, is a Professor of Psychology and of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences at the University of Washington and Director of the Behavioral Research and Therapy Clinics, a consortium of research projects developing new treatments and evaluating their efficacy for severely disordered and multi-diagnostic populations. Her primary research is in the development and evaluation of evidence-based treatments for high suicide risk, multi-diagnostic and difficult to treat populations with severe mental disorders. Dr. Linehan founded the Linehan Institute and Behavioral Tech Research, Inc. and is highly involved in developing effective means of disseminating evidence based behavioral treatments to all those who need them.
Theo Bennett is a Neuroscience student at Brigham Young University. He has done work on Ophthalmic and cardiovascular tissue engineering and completed an internship at the Reijo Pera Stem Cell Institute developing and conducting spinal motor neuron differentiation. He has co-presented at the Utah Conference on Undergraduate Research, the Brigham Young University Biomedical Engineering Conference and at PeaceLove's Mental Wellness Speaker Series. In 2014, he presented a Ted Talk at TEDxBozeman, “A Humanistic View of Mental Illness,” in which he stresses the importance of engaging and talking about mental illness and his experiences with his father living with mental illness.

Steven Adelsheim, M.D., is a Clinical Professor of Psychiatry & Behavioral Science at Stanford University. Dr. Adelsheim is a child, adolescent and adult psychiatrist who works to support community behavioral health partnerships locally, regionally, at the state level and nationally. Dr. Adelsheim has partnered in developing statewide mental health policy and systems, including those focused on school mental health, telebehavioral health, tribal behavioral health programs, and suicide prevention. For many years Dr. Adelsheim has been developing and implementing early detection and intervention programs for young people in school-based and primary care settings, including programs for depression, anxiety, prodromal symptoms of psychosis, and first episodes of psychosis. Dr. Adelsheim is also involved in the implementation of integrated behavioral health care models in primary care settings as well as the use of media to decrease stigma surrounding mental health issues.

Sergio Aguilar-Gaxiola, M.D., Ph.D., is the Director of the Center for Reducing Health Disparities at the UC David Health System and a Professor of Clinical Internal Medicine in the School of Medicine at the University of California, Davis. He is also the Director of the Community Engagement Program of the UC Davis Clinical Translational Science Center. Dr. Aguilar-Gaxiola’s research includes cross-national comparative epidemiologic research on patterns and correlates of mental disorders and substance abuse in general population samples. His applied research program has focused on identifying unmet mental health needs and associated risk and protective factors reduce mental health disparities in underserved populations. He is the author of over 130 scientific publications and the recipient of multiple awards including the Medal of Congress of Chile, the DHHS Office of Minority Health National Minority Health Community Leader Award, the Excellence in Hispanic Mental Health Advocacy, Leadership, and Research Award from the National Resource Center for Hispanic Mental Health, and many more.

William Jahmal Miller, M.H.A., is the Deputy Director of the Office of Health Equity of the California Department of Public Health. He previously worked at Kaiser Permanente’s National Offices in the Community Benefit, Health Policy & Research Division and at Sutter Children’s Hospital at Sutter Medical Center managing inpatient and outpatient operations. He has been a board member of the California Child Care Referral and Resource Network as well as on the board of the American Heart Association's Western Region Health Equity Task Force, the American Diabetes Association and Ronald McDonald House Charities.

Marina Castillo-Augusto, M.S., is the Chief of the Community Development and Engagement Unit with the Office of Health Equity at the California Department of Public Health. In her role, Marina leads and monitors the innovative California Reducing Disparities Project, a pilot program aimed at reducing mental health disparities for targeted racial, ethnic, and LGBTQ communities and engages and serves as a resource to internal and external stakeholders on mental health equity for vulnerable populations. She previously served as Acting Chief of the Office of Multicultural Services of the California Department of Mental Health and is a member of the Mental Health Services Act Partners Forum and the California Mental Health Services Act Multicultural Coalition. She has received numerous awards including the Governor’s Office of Emergency Services Award and the Office of the Attorney General Award for Teamwork, Leadership and a Commitment to Excellence.
Chantel Garrett is the Founder and Executive Director of the National Psychosis Prevention Council (NPPC). She is an experienced business leader and passionate advocate for radical change in the quality, delivery and social embrace of mental health care, early detection, prevention and recovery from serious mental illness. Her passion for mental health care is inspired by her brother’s experience living with schizophrenia. Her expertise focuses on policy issues surrounding serious mental illness and mental health care system basics. She serves as a Board member for the Flawless Foundation and is a blogger for the Huffington Post.

Alan Fruzzetti, Ph.D., is the Director of the Dialectical Behavior Therapy and Research Program and a Professor in the Department of Psychology at the University of Nevada. Dr. Fruzzetti also serves as a Research Advisor and Member of the Board of Directors of the National Education Alliance for Borderline Personality Disorder (NEA-BPD). His research focuses on interpersonal and family models of psychopathology, interpersonal processes and Dialectical Behavior Therapy. He also serves on the Scientific Advisory Board for the Linehan Institute and on the Board of Directors for the International Society for DBT. Dr. Fruzzetti has received numerous awards including the Research Excellence Award from the International Society for Dialectical Behavior Therapy and Psychologist of the Year from the Nevada Psychological Association.

Thomas C. Neylan, M.D., is the Director of the PTSD Research and Clinical Programs and Deputy Associate Chief of Staff for Research at the San Francisco Veterans Affairs Medical Center (SFVAMC). He is also a Professor of Psychiatry at the University of California, San Francisco. Dr. Neylan has served as a reviewer and section editor on the Editorial Board of the Journal of Neuropsychiatry and Clinical Neurosciences for over twenty years as well as a reviewer and chair of numerous committees, grants and programs. His key areas of focus include PTSD, psychopharmacology, electrophysiology and magnetic resonance imaging. He currently serves on the Advisory Committee to the UCSF Clinical and Translational Science Institute and on the Ethnic, Cultural, and Gender Diversity Committee of the UCSF Department of Psychiatry.

Scott Zeller, M.D., is the Chief of Psychiatric Emergency Services at John George Hospital in the Alameda Health System. He is also the Past President of the American Association for Emergency Psychiatry. He is the author of numerous articles and is the co-editor of "Emergency Psychiatry: Principles and Practice," the first comprehensive textbook of emergency psychiatry. Dr. Zeller founded and directed Project BETA, which published international best-practice guidelines for the evaluation and treatment of agitation. In 2012, he won the San Francisco Business Times “Heroes of Healthcare” award and in 2009, he was named Alameda County’s Outstanding Physician of the Year. In 2013, Dr. Zeller was named California Hospital Association's "Person of the Year" honor, the Šimanek Distinguished Service Award.

Ken Duckworth, M.D., is the Medical Director for NAMI. He is double board certified in adult and child and adolescent psychiatry and has completed a forensic psychiatry fellowship. Dr. Duckworth has previously served as Acting Commissioner of Mental Health and the Medical Director for the Department of Mental Health of Massachusetts, as a psychiatrist on a Program of Assertive Community Treatment (PACT) team, and as Medical Director of the Massachusetts Mental Health Center.

Jacqueline M. Feldman, M.D., is a Professor Emeritus of the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Neurobiology at the University of Alabama at Birmingham. She also serves as Associate Medical Director for NAMI and as Editor-in-Chief for the Community Mental Health Journal. Dr. Feldman serves on the National Board of Directors for the American Association of Community Psychiatrists and previously served as President of the Alabama Psychiatric Physicians Association. She has received numerous awards including Mental Health Professional of the Year from NAMI Alabama, the Argus Award for Recognition of Excellence in Teaching Clinical Psychiatry and has written and co-written numerous publications.
Dave Pilon, Ph.D., C.P.R.P., is the President and Chief Executive Officer of Mental Health America (MHA) of Los Angeles and serves as a lead trainer and as Founding Director of the training division at the MHA Village. Dr. Pilon developed the “quality of life” outcomes system and MORS (Milestones of Recovery Scale), helping to increase the capacity of organizations to measure their effectiveness and helps policy makers gauge the system-wide results of programs. Dr. Pilon's outcome studies focus on "quality of life" areas including living, work, education, finance and social goals. His computerized system collects, analyzes and reports real-time data. His evaluation study covered 5,000 individuals served by 55 programs in 34 California counties and helps to serve individuals with mental illness who are homeless and/or at risk of jail. In 2004, Dr. Pilon was honored as Researcher of the Year by the United States Psychiatric Rehabilitation Association.

Bill Carruthers is a Certified Peer Specialist for Savannah Counseling Services and Certified Addiction Recovery Empowerment Specialist and the Director of the Savannah Counseling Services Peer Program. Bill is in long term recovery from mental illness and addiction. For 35 years, he struggled with addiction, mental illness, homelessness and involvement with the criminal justice system. Bill is on the state Board of Directors for NAMI Georgia. He was one of the original Community Navigation Specialists for Opening Doors to Recovery program. He is on the advisory committee for his local Jail Diversion Trauma Recovery program and is certified in the crisis intervention team (CIT) training. Bill is a veteran of the United States Navy.

Karan Singh, M.B.A., is the Co-Founder of ginger.io and currently leads its overall sales, marketing and business development operations. He has extensive experience across the healthcare ecosystem working in management consulting, informatics, and emerging markets. A leader in the digital health community, he is a frequent speaker on the topics of healthcare innovation and new models of mental health treatment and delivery. Karan holds his M.B.A. from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) Sloan with a fellowship in entrepreneurship from the MIT Legatum Center for Development, and is currently on hiatus from Harvard Medical School. Karan received his BA and BS in Economics and Business Administration from UC Berkeley.

Rachel Loewy, Ph.D., is an Associate Professor in the Department of Psychiatry at the University of California, San Francisco. Her work focuses on early identification and intervention in schizophrenia, including identifying risk factors for developing psychosis, diagnosing prodromal psychosis, and testing novel interventions for early psychosis. She has developed evidence-based treatment programs for early psychosis through community-academic partnerships. She has received numerous awards, including the Inspiring Hope Science to Service Award from the National Council for Behavioral Health.

Fred C. Osher, M.D., is the Director of Health Systems and Services Policy at the Council of State Governments. He is a community psychiatrist with clinical and research interests focusing on the co-occurrence of mental and substance use disorders, and persons with these disorders within the justice system. Dr. Osher is the Director of the Center for Behavioral Health, Justice and Public Policy, and an Associate Professor of Psychiatry at the University of Maryland, School of Medicine. He has previously served as the Director of Community Psychiatry at the University of Maryland, Acting Director of the Division of Demonstration Programs at the Center for Mental Health Services at SAMHSA and Deputy Director of the Office of Programs for the Homeless Mentally Ill at the National Institute of Mental Health. Dr. Osher has published extensively in the areas of homelessness, community psychiatry, co-occurring mental and addictive disorders, and effective approaches to persons with behavioral disorders within justice settings.
Kim Norman, M.D., is a Distinguished Professor of Adolescent and Young Adult Health at the University of California, San Francisco. Dr. Norman previously served as the Assistant Director of the Inpatient Adolescent Psychiatry Service at the Langley Porter Psychiatric Institute. In 2004, he established the Young Adult and Family Center at UCSF that includes the Eating Disorders Clinic, the Dialectical Behavioral Therapy Program, the Intensive Family Therapy Program, the Adolescent Assessment Clinic and the Consultation Liaison program between Child and Adolescent Psychiatry and the Department of Pediatrics’ Adolescent Medicine Program. Dr. Norman has received numerous awards, including the Henry J. Kaiser Award for Clinical Teaching. His areas of expertise include substance abuse, dual diagnosis, adolescents, young adults and families, CBT, DBT, IPT, PTSD and dynamic psychotherapy.

Michael Kehoe, M.B.A., is the Chief of Police for the Newtown Police Department. He started working at the Newtown Police Department as a Sergeant in 1978 and was promoted until being named Chief of Police in 2001. He has served as the President of the Fairfield County’s Chiefs of Police Association and served on the Board of Directors of the Connecticut Police Chiefs Association as Vice President. He currently serves as Co-chair of the Board of the Newtown Prevention Council, Chairman of the Statewide Narcotics Task Force Policy Board, member of the supervisory board of the Multi-disciplinary Investigation Team (MIT) of Greater Danbury and a member of the Connecticut Coalition for Drug Endangered Children.

Khatera Aslami-Tamplen is the Consumer Relations Manager for the Alameda County Behavioral Health Care Services. She previously served as the Executive Director of Peers Envisioning and Engaging in Recovery Services (PEERS). She is a consumer, trauma survivor and an Advanced Level WRAP Facilitator. As an Afghan-American, she is a representative of an underserved immigrant community and specializes in forging community partnerships and alliances in an effort to spread WRAP, its values and ethics, end stigma and discrimination, promote wellness, recovery, resiliency and social inclusion throughout the Oakland Bay Area and California. She is currently President of the Board of Directors of The Copeland Center.

Joshua Mantz is a retired Major from the United States Army and currently serves as HR Business Partner at Tesla Motors. He previously served as Chief Development Director for the National Veterans Wellness and Healing Center. He previously served as a Military Liaison Officer between Irwin Army Community Hospital and Kansas State University and studied Arabic and Environmental Engineering at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. He currently acts as a national public speaker working to influence strategic change to behavioral health care systems across the country in order to enhance the emotional recovery of trauma victims. He hopes his work will educate & inspire academic and clinical audiences.

Patricia Ryan, MPA, is the Senior Fellow of the National Association of Counties (NACo) County Innovation Network (COIN), and a Governor-appointed member of the California Department of Public Health/Office of Health Equity Advisory Board. Patricia retired in 2013 from her role as Executive Director of the California Mental Health Directors Association, the statewide advocacy association representing local public mental health departments and services. Ms. Ryan currently serves as a behavioral health consultant. In addition, she previously served on the Board of Directors of the National Association of County Behavioral Health and Developmental Disabilities Directors for 12 years, including two years as Vice President.
Claudia Center, J.D., is the Senior Staff Attorney and Director of the Disability Rights Program at the Legal Aid Society - Employment Law Center (LAS-ELC). In her role, Ms. Center litigates cases that secure workplace accommodations and increase protections for disabled workers. She has received numerous awards including the Paul G. Hearne Award for Disability Rights, presented annually by the ABA Commission on Mental and Physical Disability Law. Prior to starting her work at the LAS-ELC, Ms. Center was a staff attorney at the National Abortion and Reproductive Rights Action League (NARAL) and a recipient of the Women's Law and Public Policy Fellowship.

Ezio Lucido is the Founder and CEO of Luminous Media Group as well as a Director, Producer and Screenwriter. He has been inspired by his older brother who was diagnosed with sudden, early onset schizophrenia and uses his work to share his brother’s story and share the message that the journey is just as important as the goal. He has completed hundreds of projects in film, television, marketing and media. He produced a feature length documentary and through this work and other strategic partnerships, works to raise millions of dollars through storytelling for various causes.

Donna Hardaker is the Director of Wellness Works of Mental Health America of California. Wellness Works offers workplace mental health training to raise awareness, reduce stigma and build capacity for organizations to address employee mental health issues more effectively. Donna is a Workplace Mental Health Specialist, developing and delivering training and consulting services to organizations in Canada and the US. She is a content developer, trainer and consultant with the Mental Health Works program and has a background in psychology, mental health policy, adult education, human resources management, peer support and transformational coaching. She has co-written a research paper on management training and her work has been published in several magazines and publications.

Mary Hogden is a Program Specialist for the Alameda County Behavioral Health Care Services (ACBHCS). She manages the 800-member Pool of Consumer Champions (POCC), a consumer organization supported by ACBHCS to promote systems of change in the mental health system. She previously worked as an outreach coordinator for PEERS Social Inclusion Outreach Program, helping to establish and direct a campaign to reduce mental health stigma and discrimination. Additionally, she previously served as Founder and CEO of FIRST, Inc., a non-profit residential treatment in North Carolina for women and men with alcohol, drug and mental health issues. She currently serves on the Board of Directors for Black Men Speak.

And Many More Outstanding Speakers!