About NAMI’s Together for Mental Health Awareness Campaign

During the pandemic, we faced isolation, turmoil and unrest, and a growing number of Americans experienced mental health symptoms. We learned through this experience that we all struggle during challenging times and need support and access to care to thrive. With our new Together for Mental Health awareness campaign, NAMI is emphasizing what we have all experienced — that mental health is an incredibly important part of overall health. Through this message, we are encouraging people to join together to advocate for better mental health care.

Our Together for Mental Health campaign will run from September 2021 through all of 2022. Our primary call to action will be focused around building a crisis response system where people are immediately connected to help when they are struggling.
Messaging and Calls to Action

The overarching goal of NAMI’s two-year Together for Mental Health awareness campaign is to advocate for improving our mental health care system, specifically our nation’s crisis response system.

In fall 2020, the National Suicide Hotline Designation Act was passed by Congress establishing 988 as a three-digit nationwide mental health and suicidal crisis number to be available in communities by July 2022. The implementation of 988 will involve making sure appropriate resources, funding, staffing and infrastructure are in place for a successful rollout across the country.

However, while establishing this easy-to-remember crisis number is a landmark first step, our nation needs more than a number. We need complete and robust crisis response services in every community that provide a mental health response to mental health crises.

So, during each of our awareness months starting September 2021 through all of 2022, not only will we be focusing our content on specific NAMI communities (for example, caregivers, youth and young adults), we will also be encouraging individuals, communities and our NAMI Alliance to take action through efforts such as sharing your crisis stories or advocating for improving our nation’s crisis response system (see page 7).

Events and Activities

- Have a virtual film watch party: Watch a TV show or film about mental health and host a virtual watch party and/or discussion group. Include a post-conversation using a guide NAMI has or we could help develop questions for a film or show you choose. For some ideas, visit this page.

- Host a book club: Coordinate a book selection about mental health with friends (such as “Turtles All the Way Down” by Jon Green; “On Edge: A Journey Through Anxiety” by Andrea Petersen; “Crazy Is My Superpower” by AJ Mendez Brooks; “Eleanor Oliphant Is Completely Fine: A Novel” by Gail Honeyman; “The Lonely Century” by Noreena Hertz). Then host — virtually or in person — a conversation to talk about it. Consider inviting the author or a subject matter expert to moderate or ask for facilitation questions to help guide the discussion.

- Craft ideas: Hold a Slime event through the SlooMoo Institute; organize a community treasure hunt; or decorate rocks and write inspirational wellness messages on the bottom to place in spots such as parks or family-friendly hiking trails for others to find.

- Host a NAMI DIY Fundraiser: The NAMI Do It Yourself (DIY) Fundraising platform is the perfect way to take initiative and raise money for NAMI. Plan an event like bowling or a bake sale, concert or gala, celebrate a milestone, remember a loved one’s legacy, undertake a physical challenge, or create something that’s perfect for your unique skills or interests.

See page 10 and page 16 for specific activities and events taking place during our awareness events.
Read the NAMI Blog and Share
The NAMI Blog will feature weekly stories with content related to our awareness events. Be sure to visit the NAMI Blog at nami.org/Blog and look for posts on our social media channels featuring quotes from our authors.

Get Inspired by NAMI.org Personal Stories
We will also feature personal stories of lived experience on nami.org/Personal-Stories and on our social media channels. Personal stories are brief, more informal pieces submitted to NAMI. By sharing these stories, we aim to highlight the importance of mental health in all communities and to make people feel less alone in their mental health journeys.

How to Spread Awareness in Your Community
There are different ways to get the word out during our awareness events to help start conversations about improving our nation’s crisis response system:

- Mental health is an essential part of overall health
- We need to advocate for improved access and quality of mental health care
- We need to reimagine our crisis response system to one that offers help, not handcuffs
- Share your mental health crisis story with us
- NAMI HelpLine information as a mental health resource:

September is Suicide Prevention Awareness Month — a time to raise awareness on this stigmatized, and often taboo, topic. In addition to shifting public perception, we use this month to spread hope and vital information to people affected by suicide. Our goal is ensuring that individuals, friends and families have access to the resources they need to discuss suicide prevention and to seek help.

While suicide prevention is important to address year-round, Suicide Prevention Awareness Month provides a dedicated time to come together with collective passion and strength around a difficult subject. The truth is, we can all benefit from honest conversations about mental health conditions and suicide — just one conversation can save a life. Learn more at nami.org/Suicide-Prevention-Awareness-Month.

Throughout the month of September, NAMI will highlight our awareness theme Together for Mental Health, which encourages people to bring their voices together to advocate for better mental health care, including a crisis response system. NAMI wants any person experiencing suicidal thoughts or behaviors to have a number to call, a system to turn to, that would connect them to the treatment and support they need.

NAMI
National Alliance on Mental Illness
MENTAL ILLNESS AWARENESS WEEK

Each year, millions of Americans face the reality of living with a mental health condition. However, mental illness affects everyone directly or indirectly through family, friends or coworkers. That is why each year, during the first week of October, NAMI and participants across the country raise awareness of mental illness, fight discrimination and provide support through Mental Illness Awareness Week (MIAW).

We believe that mental health conditions are important to discuss year-round, but highlighting them during MIAW provides a dedicated time for mental health advocates across the country to come together as one unified voice. Since 1990, when Congress officially established the first full week of October as MIAW, advocates have worked together to sponsor activities, large or small, to educate the public about mental illness. Learn more at nami.org/miaw.

Mental Illness Awareness Week 2021 occurs Sunday, Oct. 3 through Saturday, Oct. 9. This year’s MIAW is centered around our new awareness campaign Together for Mental Health, where we will focus on the importance of advocating for better care for people with serious mental illness (SMI). Each day throughout the week, we will be raising the voices of people with lived experience to talk about SMI and the need for improved crisis response and mental health care.
MENTAL ILLNESS AWARENESS WEEK
Events and Activities

Each day during MIAW, NAMI will focus on what continues to be barriers to mental health care that people nationwide still experience:

Oct. 3: MIAW Kickoff
Oct. 4: Stigma/Discrimination
Oct. 5: Access to Care/Not Enough Providers
Oct. 6: Lack of Crisis Response

Oct. 7: Cultural Barriers
Oct. 8: Condition-Specific Barriers
Oct. 9: Socio-Economic Barriers

Events/Activities:

- NAMI will be making several special announcements during MIAW regarding the extension of NAMI HelpLine hours and an update to NAMI Hearts + Minds. Visit nami.org/news for more information as we get closer to October.
- Register and attend NAMI’s Virtual Inspiring Hope Through Research Event on Wednesday, Oct. 6 is honoring Gail Daumit, M.D., MHS, FACP, and A. Eden Evins, M.D., for their work in the mental health field.
- Thursday, Oct. 7: Virtual Town Hall featuring NAMI and The Steve Fund. Visit nami.org/news for more information as we get closer to the event.
- Participate in NAMIWalks Your Way, a virtual event on Saturday, Oct. 9. This United Day of Hope has a local and national reach to elevate awareness of and raise funds for mental health and bring together and grow the NAMI community.
