RE: Support for S. 1902, Behavioral Health Crisis Services Expansion Act

Dear Chairs Murray and Wyden and Ranking Members Burr and Crapo:

The Mental Health Liaison Group (MHLG), a coalition of national organizations representing people with behavioral health conditions, family members, mental health and substance use providers, advocates, and other stakeholders is writing to express our strong support for S. 1902, the Behavioral Health Crisis Services Expansion Act. This comprehensive, bipartisan legislation would provide critical support to develop and sustain crisis services across the country at a time when more people than ever, including children, are struggling with worsening mental health, substance use and suicidal ideation.

From August 2020 to February of this year, more than 4 in 10 adults reported anxiety or depression. Deaths from overdoses increased by 30 percent in 2020. And last year, the proportion of children and youth going to emergency rooms for mental health crises and suicide attempts increased dramatically.

There is real pain that is being felt by people of all ages across the country—in every neighborhood and every community.

The National Suicide Prevention Lifeline has helped millions of people through suicidal and mental health crisis situations and, with the advent of 988, the new three-digit number will serve as a “front door” to many more. However, few communities have a robust crisis system in place, including sufficient local Lifeline call center capacity, mobile crisis teams, peer respite, and crisis stabilization programs for people who need more intensive interventions. Without this infrastructure, law enforcement is often the in-person response. When law enforcement responds, people in crisis too often end up in jails, in emergency departments, or worse, they are harmed or killed during the encounter or die by suicide. A comprehensive, culturally-aligned crisis response system is critical to advancing equity as these tragic outcomes are more likely to be experienced by communities of color.
The Behavioral Health Crisis Services Expansion Act would help transform crisis response nationwide by providing vital support for building and sustaining effective crisis care. Specifically, this legislation:

1. Directs the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) to establish standards for a crisis continuum of care that includes crisis call centers, mobile crisis teams, crisis stabilization services, short-term crisis residential and behavioral health urgent walk-in care;

2. Provides coverage of mobile crisis teams and a range of crisis stabilization services by Medicare, Medicaid, Affordable Care Act health plans, employer-sponsored coverage, the Federal Employee Health Benefits Program and by the VA and TRICARE, which will level the playing field and facilitate diversified funding of crisis services;

3. Supports funding in the Mental Health Block Grant to build capacity, as well as to provide technical assistance and promote effective practices; and

4. Promotes coordination with 911 emergency systems.

We believe our nation’s ability to respond to behavioral health crises in the same way we respond to other medical emergencies—with prompt, effective and culturally competent care—is essential to our collective well-being. Our organizations urge you to bring S. 1902 before your respective committees for consideration so it can be swiftly enacted. With the new three-digit crisis number becoming universally available next summer, it is essential to act quickly on this critical legislation.
